

SCHOOL OF NATURAL RESOURCES & ENVIRONMENT Environmental Fellows Program UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

The Environmental Fellows Program (EFP) is a national program offered in partnership with the C.S. Mott Foundation, the Environmental Grantmakers Association, and the University of Michigan that seeks to diversify the environmental and conservation philanthropic sector by supporting the career aspirations of graduate students from traditionally underrepresented backgrounds.

Why Apply to EFP?

- A 12 week paid fellowship in the field of environmental philanthropy. Previous fellowships explored issues ranging from environmental health to climate change
- Fellowship placement sites with the Environmental Grantmakers Association (EGA) and their member organizations. And partner organizations, including: mainstream NGOs, environmental justice nonprofits and policy institutes
- Create mentor relationships and professional connections within your field
- Connect with a passionate and committed cohort of your peers
- $10,000 stipend and travel expenses to and from a professional conference

Program runs for 12 weeks during the summer of 2017.

Applications for EFP will open early December 2016.
